Explore Andean archaeology from the rise of the Inca empire through the Spanish colonial period.

Examine archaeological evidence for the development of late pre-Hispanic societies in western South America, the Spanish conquest, and the origins of key Spanish colonial institutions in the Andean region: the Church, coerced indigenous labor, and African slavery.

Interrogate the underpinnings and legacies of colonialism, race, and capitalism in the region.

Consider the material culture of daily life and those living on the social margins, both in pre-Hispanic societies and under Spanish rule.
